Dear Madam/Sir:

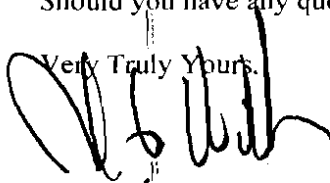

WaMu Investments, Inc. (the "Firm") is a broker/dealer affiliate of JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A. that offers clients investment and insurance products. The Firm will notify 14 New Hampshire residents that during a review, we determined we were unable to locate certain documents from the years 2001 and 2006 containing some of their personal and financial information. The information included the individual's name, account number, address, estimated annual income and estimated net worth.

The Firm has searched extensively through files that may have contained the documents, both in our offices and at our offsite storage location and we believe that the documents have been misplaced. While we have, to date, been unable to locate these documents, we have no indication that the information has been or will be accessed or used inappropriately.

While we do not consider this matter as a "breach of security" under New Hampshire law, as a prudent business decision we notified our clients. Our letter, out of an abundance of caution, provided clients with information on how to obtain a free credit bureau report and on how they can protect themselves, including contact information for the credit bureaus to place a fraud alert on their consumer reports.

Should you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me at (949) 442-5255.

Very Truly Yours,

Douglas F. Wilburn, SVP
Chief Compliance Officer
